The Bright Side.

It is so easy to knock and cry hard times and to argue that our country is going to the bad. Now, let's stop and see about it. We have today the twenty-foot graded public road where the pig and cow trail marked the woods a few years ago. The creeks and rivers are spanned by good, durable bridges now where the low-water fords used to be. The cleared acres belted cultivated in this section are ten times as many to-day as they were five years ago, and not a one of them but what produces more than they did then. Hundreds of ears of vegetables are being shipped out, a thing not even thought of a few years ago. The four-month school has been replaced by the seven to nine months term, with more proficient teachers. Fine hogs, cattle and horses are taking the place of shabby stock, the Poland China and Berkshire hogs are rooting out the razorback breed, and, with numerous other improvements, it seems a little out of order to be hollering hard times and worse a-comeing.

Votes For Women Certainty.

Washington, June 27.—Speaker Clark today told a delegation of women from the National American Women's Suffrage Association that "woman suffrage is as inevitable as the rising of tomorrow's sun."

"For one thousand years," said the speaker, "men have been trying to run the world and some think that they have made a bad mess of it. I hope that when you women run it you'll improve on it. I think woman suffrage is inevitable. The only question you folks have to consider is how to most expeditiously get what you are after. You can get it quicker by the states than by congress."

"In some places there is a great prejudice against women suffrage. You want to remember one thing, that if you lose the fight you are out for years. Whenever the subject comes up for a vote in Missouri I am going to vote for women suffrage. This is not because all women are fitted to vote and I may add that I would not like to say that all men are fitted to vote. If you ever do vote, and I think it is coming certainly, I hope you will vote for the best principles and the men."

The speaker was addressing a group of women from 28 states who had presented 300 petitions for woman suffrage. There were also present congressmen, Democrats, Republicans and Progressives, to whom petitions also were addressed.

The woman suffrage leaders in the delegation included Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Miss Jane Addams and Mrs. Antoinette Funk, of Chicago; Mrs. Helen A. Gardner, Mrs. Glenna Smith Tinning and Mrs. Raymond B. Morse, of Washington.

Vice President Marshall also received the suffragists.

The suffragists requested that all questions be laid before congress by July 8. The petitions asked congress for legislation which will "insure to women equal political rights with men," but did not advocate any particular measure.

Don't Mind.

Don't mind if you are feeling bad, It won't be long before you're glad. Don't mind if you're feeling blue, There's something somewhere waiting for you.

To lift your shadow and your care And heal the haunting, dark despair. Don't mind if the day goes wrong, Perhaps before the night a song. Will rise around you sweet and clear, Like magic music to your ear, And all your weary heart will feel, Responsive to its sweet appeal.

Don't mind if you lose the chance, It won't be long before you'll dance, Into the biggest luck of all; Fight on with back against the wall, And somehow your blade will leap, The strength to swing it far and deep. Don't mind if you feel cast down, Tomorrow you may wear the crown. From out of the shadows over you, Today tomorrow's sun will strew, The gladdening and uplifting beams, That fill the heart with brighter dreams.

Praise M. S. McLaurin Stevens.

The Washington correspondents of the New Orleans papers were enthusiastic in praise of Mrs. Daisy McLaurin Stevens, president general of the U. D. C., who presented the confederate monument at Arlington to the president of the United States at the recent unveiling ceremonies. Her beauty, her dress, her admirable self-possession, her voice and her eloquent words were alike the subject of utmost admiration. She also won all hearts by her spontaneous act in presenting to the president an immense bunch of American Beauty roses just presented to her by Senator John Sharp Williams in behalf of the U. D. C., addressing the president simply as "Mr. Wilson" and indeed why not? For is the president of this republic any more than any other gentleman, to be called by some peculiar title? Mrs. Stevens was entertained at a great many functions in Washington and did credit to her State and herself at them all.—Scott County Register.

Buckley's Arnica Salve for Burns. Adv.

Sumrall, Miss., Visited by Destructive Fire; Loss $10,000.

Sumrall, Miss., June 27.—Fire of a mysterious origin occurred on Friday morning threatened to wipe out the town.

Fourteen buildings in the heart of Sumrall, parched by the drought of more than a month, burned like paper.

The damage is estimated at more than $10,000. Stores, meat markets, two barber shops and half a dozen dwellings and one church were the buildings destroyed.

The fire started at 2:30 o'clock in the morning and the fire alarm was sounded by a switch engine, sawmill and factory whistles. The thermometer during the day registered 102 and the intense dry heat made fighting the fire difficult.

The families whose houses were burned are being cared for by the neighbors.

The property destroyed was mostly owned by the J. J. Newman Lumber Company.

The New Money.

"Can't have too much of a good thing, and money surely is that kind of a thing." That is the comment of "the man in the street" when he reads that the Treasury is preparing millions of circulating notes of a new type to be issued as occasion arises in the discounting of commercial paper by the new Federal reserve banks.

We already have five kinds of paper money—gold certificates, silver certificates, Treasury notes of 1890, United States notes ("greenbacks") and national bank notes. The Treasury notes left outstanding are few, the banks hold the "greenbacks" in their reserves and coin does not circulate in this part of the country. The only notes the average citizen sees are those issued by the national banks and the silver certificates, which are simply warehouse receipts for the silver dollars stored in Treasury vaults. Hence the new sort of notes will cause no complication—particularly as the law provides that when these are received by any Federal bank they must be immediately returned to the banks that issued them.—New York Herald.

Proposes New Law.

Baton Rouge, La., June 29.—Representative Fleury of Jefferson this afternoon introduced a bill in the House designed to cure the defect in the kidnapping act of 1910, which was today declared invalid by the Supreme Court.

Mr. Fleury's bill follows:

"Whoever shall forcibly seize, take and carry out of this State, or from any part of this State, any male child under the age of fourteen years, or any female child under the age of twelve years, from the custody of his or her parent or parents, tutor or guardian, without the authority of law, and all person aiding or abetting therein, shall be guilty of the crime of kidnapping, and on conviction thereof shall suffer death."

Actually Heard.

BRITONS GOING BACK

NATIONAL PHYSIQUE SHOWN TO BE DETERIORATING.

Results of Physical Examinations of School Children Have Stirred the Phlegmatic Islanders From Natural Complacency.

The recent statement of Sir James Crichton-Browne, that in many public elementary schools today it is impossible to find ten children absolutely sound in mind, body, wind and limb; that almost every child shows a blench of some kind that interferes either with its education or mars more or less its prospects in life, has attracted enormous interest in England, though it has long been recognized that the national physique has been steadily deteriorating.

It is a far cry from the days of the ancient Briton to 1913, but the long space of time has certainly done nothing to improve the stamina of the population; in fact, quite to the contrary.

The National League for Physical Education and Improvement, which has been amalgamated with the Mansion House committee on health and housing, is now devoting itself to the physical care of children in schools in the hope that in due course of time the improvement of bodily health will be as large a part of the curriculum as anything else.

The board of education has recently established a medical department which has introduced a system of Swedish physical drill in elementary schools, and also in about 1,500 secondary schools. Prospective teachers are now going through a course of instruction in the training colleges.

It was at one of the recent meetings of the National League that Sir James Crichton-Browne made the speech which has been so much commented on recently.

"It is always abnormalities, definite defects, individual calamities, that chiefly move sympathy," he said. "Any great and sudden catastrophe is immediately met by a copious outpouring of such relief as is possible and I rejoice at this."

"But it is our desire that catastrophes, not sudden, but which are long drawn out, shall not be overlooked, and in these I class the possible catastrophes of the decadence and deterioration of the British race, a problem which this league is now engaged in grappling with."

"I am not a pessimist," he continued, "but it is impossible to read the reports coming in daily from medical officers throughout the country without feeling the greatest apprehension for the future of our race unless stringent methods are adopted."

"On a memorable occasion it was demonstrated that ten righteous men could not be found in a certain city. In some public elementary schools to-day, I am sure in many of them—it would be impossible to find ten children absolutely sound in mind, body, wind and limb."

"Almost every child shows a blench of some kind that either interferes with education or that must mar, more or less, its prospects in life. We may not be able to make them all Venuses de Medici or Apollos Belvedere, but the first step must be taken by bringing all the flaws to light, for many of them are capable of correction or cure if taken in time."

The Bombardier Wells fleas has occasioned further comment on the national stamina. Admiral Montague, a hale old Victorian figure, who invariably occupies a seat at every light at the National Sporting club, writes as follows:

"I have not followed the new craze for international Olympic games, so can offer no opinion as to how we stand, but I do think this—maybe because as a citizen of seventy-two years, well passed in age, one is inclined to be biased—that the youths of England have not nearly so much grit in them as in former days. There are plenty of reasons why this is so; it is not so much their fault as their misfortune."

Concerning Woman.

When God thought of mother, he must have laughed with satisfaction and framed it quickly—so rich, so deep, so divine, so full of soul, power and beauty was the conception.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Much abused people usually deserve it.

Wilson Still Is Hopeful.

Washington, July 1.—After a conference with Secretary Bryan, President Wilson authorized the statement today that the Mexican situation was as favorable as it may be until the factions get together. Further the President refused to discuss the Mexican situation.

While no statement was made regarding the recess of the conference, officials said the President was hopeful that Huerta, Carranza and Villa would agree on a definite plan.

The President takes the view that mediation has greatly increased the good feeling between the United States and all Latin-American countries and has shown that the United States never had any intention of attacking Mexico with the idea of territorial aggrandizement.
